The newsletter of the Oregon Museums Association, Dispatch, is published four times a year: Spring, Summer, Fall and Winter. Oregon Museums Association is a statewide membership organization serving the needs of museums and related institutions, large and small, across Oregon. OMA holds meetings and workshops around the state, advocates for the interests of its members in legislative and other matters, publishes a bi-annual newsletter, The OMA Dispatch, and a periodic directory of all known museums in the state. Historic houses, aquaria, interpretive centers and sites, zoos, heritage museums and related institutions, large and small, across Oregon. OMA holds meetings and workshops around the state, advocates for the interests of its members in legislative and other matters, publishes a bi-annual Guide To Oregon Museums, and a periodic directory of all known museums in the state. Historic houses, aquaria, interpretive centers and sites, zoos, heritage sites - all are potential members of OMA. OMA is a nonprofit organization; contributions are tax deductible. OMA provides scholarships to members for professional development. OMA is an affiliated state organization of the Western Museums Association. Mark Your Calendar!

Those attending OMA’s Fall 2007 meeting will be among the first to view the latest and greatest issue of the bi-annual Guide to Oregon Museums. You won’t want to miss it! At press time the Program Committee was working on the details for OMA’s 2008 programs. Be sure to watch this space in the Winter issue of Dispatch for Spring and Fall dates and locations!

Members, Might your museum or cultural site be interested in hosting a future OMA meeting? Is there a topic or issue you would like to present or see covered at an upcoming OMA meeting? If so, contact OMA Program Chair David Porter: 503.657.9336 or trilboss@att.net.

Colombia River Maritime Museum Hosts Fall Meeting

Founded in 1962 by Rolf Klep, The Columbia River Maritime Museum displays one of the most extensive collections of nautical artifacts on the West Coast. Over 100,000 visitors per year enjoy the Museum, its remarkable riverfront location and its truly unique look at maritime history in the Pacific Northwest. This private non-profit institution employs a staff of 23 in a modern 47,000 square foot building on a 13-acre campus.

The mission of the Columbia River Maritime Museum (CRMM) is to collect and preserve historical and cultural materials relevant to the Columbia River, and to display and interpret selected material from the collection for the education and enjoyment of the public. The core purpose of the Museum is to enrich lives by inspiring interest in maritime history and culture involving the Columbia River.

Designated as Oregon’s official state maritime museum, this outstanding institution remains the only nationally accredited maritime museum in the Northwestern United States. In 1972, 1981, 1993 and again in 2005 the Museum was accredited by the American Association of Museums. This is a distinction now held by only six other museums in Oregon. The Museum is recognized nationally as one of the finest maritime museums.

The 100,000+ yearly visitors to the Museum arrive from all regions of the country as well as internationally. Because of the quality programs and lectures offered by the Museum, residents of the Pacific Northwest region are frequent and repeat visitors. The Museum also serves over 11,000 school children each year through guided tours, in-classroom presentations, a “Museum in a Trunk” program, and curriculum resources. Yearly attendance includes guided tours for 18,000+ adults/seniors. Enrichment programs and lectures are offered throughout the year for Museum members, visitors and the greater community.

If you are interested in submitting a 500 word article of professional, scholarly or political relevance to Oregon museums and museum professionals please contact the Editor. All submissions will be reviewed by the Editorial Board. Deadline for the Winter 2007 issue is November 1, 2007.

Driving Directions to Astoria

From points East: Take I-5 to Leif Ericson Drive. From US-26, take Highway 217 North to 16th Street. Continue North on 16th Street and turn left on Exchange Street. The Museum is on your right. From points West: Take I-84 to I-405 South, then merge onto US-101 toward Astoria City Hall (very scenic!), or take Interstate 5 to Longview and then US-26 West. From US-26, take Highway 101 to Seaside, continue North on 101 to Astoria and US-30 through downtown (also called Marine Drive).

From Portland and points north: Take US-30 West all the way to Astoria (very scenic!), or take Interstate 5 to Longview and then take Exit 36. Follow the “truck route” off ramp to the Port of Longview, cross over the Lewis and Clark Bridge and head West on US-30 (as you enter the Astoria City limits US-30 is also called Marine Drive).

From Salem and points south: Take I-5 North to Highway 217. Merge onto 217 North via exit 292A. Follow 217 North until US-26 West via the exit on the left toward Tillamook/Astoria. From US-26, take Highway 101 to Seaside, continue North on 101 to Astoria and US-30 through downtown (also called Marine Drive).

Once in Astoria, you will find the Columbia River Maritime Museum located on Exchange Street - at the corner of 16th and Exchange. It is housed in the former Astoria City Hall, constructed in 1904, and dedicated July 4, 1905. It later served as the USO Club and as the first home of the Columbia River Maritime Museum.

OMA Dispatch / Fall 2007
Since 1962, the Museum’s collection has grown to include over 30,000 artifacts and a research library collection holding over 15,000 books and 7,000 books and manuscripts. In 2002, the Museum celebrated its 40th anniversary with a grand opening of its $6 million expansion featuring innovative hands-on and interactive exhibits along with dynamic new exhibit halls with inspiring views of the Columbia River and the ships that navigate its waters.

The expansion of the museum has allowed for four new major interactive exhibits—the centerpiece of these being a 44-foot Coast Guard motor lifeboat accessible to visitors and also visible to passing motorists on the highway. A new multi-purpose room provides space for educational programs as well as social events and public meetings. The growing collections and research library are accessed by maritime scholars from around the world.

Volunteers have played an active and important role in the Museum for over 45 years. The 100+ active volunteers work toward the betterment of the institution through interaction with visitors and also serve as ambassadors for the Museum in the community.

The Museum’s publication, The QuarterDeck, was started in 1973 and recent issues have explored topics such as: Mapping The Pacific Northwest—the history of the United States Coast Survey; a detailed explanation of the Columbia River Bar and its hazards; and a centennial commemorative issue featuring the Peter Iredale, one of the area’s most popular outdoor maritime artifacts.

Mapping the Pacific Coast: Coronado to Lewis and Clark, the Quivira Collection

The Museum’s current traveling exhibit is entitled Mapping the Pacific Coast: Coronado to Lewis and Clark, the Quivira Collection, from June 30 through January 3, 2008. Mapping the Pacific Coast documents the mapping of the West Coast of North America as illustrated by a selection of maps, books and illustrations dating from 1544 to 1802. This exhibit invites visitors on a voyage beginning with the first exploration of the West Coast by Europeans and leads to Thomas Jefferson's commission of Lewis and Clark's Corps of Discovery from 1804 to 1806. The exhibit traces one of the greatest adventures in history, including dangerous ocean voyages by Spanish, French, English and Russian explorers, the race to discover the Northwest Passage, sightings of 'sea monsters,' and the very first contacts between Native Americans and Europeans. Many of the documents included in the exhibit are particularly relevant to the Northwest, with references to explorers such as Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, Sir Francis Drake, and Captain James Cook, all of whom left their mark on the Pacific Coast. These histories are told through original maps and illustrations - the earliest being woodcuts and the majority being copperplate engravings. The maps are as much works of art as compendiums of knowledge. An audio tour accompanies the exhibit.

About the Museum’s Director

Jerry Ostermiller became the Executive Director of the Columbia River Maritime Museum in Astoria, Oregon in 1989, and now serves as the Museum’s President. With over 25 years of museum administration experience, he has served as an administrator for a number of major programs. Mr. Ostermiller is an Accreditation Reviewer for the American Association of Museums and serves two national organizations: he is immediate past President of the Council of American Maritime Museums, and is a member of the board of the United States Lifesaving Service Heritage Association.

Mr. Ostermiller is a nationally recognized educator who has been featured in numerous documentaries for the History Channel, the Discovery Channel, The National Geographic Society and the Learning Channel, and served as a ship-board lecturer for Lindblad Special Expeditions and the Cunard Line’s flag ship, the QUEEN MARY-2. As a consultant, Mr. Ostermiller performs workshops and scoping sessions for museums and interpretive centers throughout the United States and Canada. Clients include universities, non-profit organizations, state and national museums and historic sites. His strong commitment to develop non-profit boards and facilitate planning strategies for museums resulted in his being a founding member of the Pacific Northwest Maritime Heritage Council, and an advisor to the planning team for the proposed National Coast Guard Museum to be constructed in New London, Connecticut.

Jerry Ostermiller earned an honors degree in social science and history from Boise State University, and completed his graduate studies in social anthropology and historical archaeology at the University of Idaho. Mr. Ostermiller is a graduate of the prestigious Seminar for Historical Administration hosted by the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, the National Trust for Historic Preservation, the American Association for State and Local History and the American Association of Museums.
Respectfully submitted, The Nominating Committee.

OMA members can join and participate on many committees and projects without being a board member. We would like to express our sincere thanks to Connie Nice for her service as OMA’s Secretary, and to Tracy Engeman as Treasurer.

The Oregon Century Farm & Ranch Program began in 1958 to honor farm and ranch families with century-long connections to the land. In the course of its 49-year history, the program has honored these families by recognizing their perseverance in the ever-changing challenge of supplying food and other farm products to the state, the nation and the world, as well as their commitment to farming and ranching, a reflection of Oregon’s rich agricultural heritage.

To attain the century farm or ranch designation, a family must follow a formal application process. A seven-member advisory board reviews each application against the qualifications, which include continuous family operation of the farm or ranch; a gross income from farm use of not less than $1,000 per year for at least three years out of five prior to application; and family members must live on or actively manage the farm or ranch activities. The completed applications are forwarded to the Oregon Historical Society Library in Portland and are available to researchers and other library users, by appointment. To mark the award of the century farm or ranch status, each family receives a certificate with acknowledgement by Governor Ted Kulongoski and Kat Coba, the director of the Oregon Department of Agriculture. A metal roadside sign denoting century status, the name of the farm or ranch, and the year established is also made available to each family. The roadside signs for the 2007 honorees will be provided to them free of charge, thanks to a grant from the Oregon Department of Agriculture.

The 2007 award ceremony is made possible, in part, by contributions from Kony’s Family Markets, the Hazelton Marketing Board, the Tillamook County Creamery Association and the Oregon Wheat Growers League. Other supporters include: Clackamas County Farm Bureau, Douglas County Farm Bureau, Grant County Farm Bureau, Marion County Farm Bureau, Yamhill County Farm Bureau, Cultural Images, and many individual donors.

The Oregon Century Farm & Ranch program is administered through the Oregon Agricultural Education Foundation (OAEF), a 501 (c) (3) Oregon non-profit organization, in cooperation with the Oregon Farm Bureau, the State Historic Preservation Office, the Oregon Department of Agriculture, and the Oregon Historical Society.

OAEF is recognized by the Oregon Cultural Trust. Make a gift to the Oregon Century Farm & Ranch Program - your matching gift to the Oregon Cultural Trust is eligible for an income tax credit. More information on how to make a contribution to the CF&R Program and the Oregon Cultural Trust is available at www.culturaltrust.org.
